

Review:

Lesson 1: The Beginning of Wisdom

Lesson 2: The Purpose of Wisdom

Lesson 3: Surrender, Pt. 1

Surrender, Part 2

Proverbs 3:5-7

If I am trusting in other things (like my own feelings or political power or social influence, etc.) more than I am trusting in God, then I am not yet _____ to Him.

Discussion 1. How can you tell whether your ultimate trust is in something or someone other than the Lord? If it is, then how do you go about correcting this?

Navigating this broken world by relying primarily upon our own understanding is operating without a safety net. Why would we trust our own feelings over the _____ of the _____ of the universe?

Discussion 2. The older you get, do you find it harder or easier to let go of your own understanding? Why? What do you think that means in terms of your spiritual growth?

It is practically a logical truism: our path through this complicated world will be easier when we walk it _____ with the Creator and designer of that same world.

Discussion 3. What part of your day (or what type of circumstance) is the most difficult for you to “practice the presence of God”? Why is it difficult? What might a “next step” look like for you in that area?

Walking in _____ with the Lord necessarily results in a few things: (1) it develops an awe and reverence for Him, (2) it prevents me from thinking myself wise on my own, and (3) it turns me away from evil.

Discussion 4. What (or who) keeps you humble, i.e., keeps you from thinking you are a particularly wise person? How often do you thank God for it?